TC Body Bags

Eliminate mortuary odours
caused by the deceased

Flexible Mortuary Solutions

Decomposed bodies can make funeral directors, public mortuaries and hospitals, very unpleasant in terms of odour. The TC body bag is a translucent, self-sealing containment device for the deceased and is of particular use when the deceased has begun to deteriorate or where there is a risk of pathogens escaping as the TC body bag seals the body eliminating these issues. Each pouch can be adapted to fit any size of body and then stored, shipped or cremated.

Each bag comes lined with a proprietary adhesive formula that will not stick to any surface other than itself, making it perfectly safe around the delicate tissue of the deceased.

Once sealed, the transparent TC BodyBag should not need to be reopened for viewing of the body. In the case that you need to reopen the bag, it can be cut open and resealed as many times as needed; the adhesive will only stick to itself.

We recently used the TC system for the first time to contain a body that required an extended period of storage. The bag was extremely easy to use and completely sealed the body, resulting in no unpleasant smells in our premises or at the funeral service. I will certainly be keeping TC bags in stock for use when necessary.

We placed a gentleman in a TC Body Bag who had been dead for over a month and mould was present. No embalming was carried out for our test of the new bag. The body was sealed in the unit and then kept in a standard body bag. The funeral proceeded with no odour. An excellent way to seal and contain human remains.
